Laramie County Community College Foundation
Recognizing Gifts and Commitments from
Dear Friends and Donors . . .

Ralph Waldo Emerson said “what lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us.” A fitting quote for a fitting time at Laramie County Community College. We are an institution with a rich and diverse history, a history of both challenges and success. We are also an institution with a vision for a vibrant, thriving future.

There seems no better recent example of this than our success this past year with the LCCC Building Forward campaign. Building Forward is a vision for the transformation of the College’s physical environment providing the facilities and environment where community is engaged and students succeed. These facilities required a significant investment by our community. Under the leadership of our LCCC Foundation Board of Directors, the LCCC Board of Trustees, combined with donors, supporters, faculty, staff, and students, we were successful in passing a $25 Million Bond Election!

The great work didn’t stop there. Through continual engagement, this army of College advocates worked tirelessly through the Legislative session to also ensure the state match for these buildings would be secured. As the Governor’s pen inked his approval of the biennial budget, LCCC was ensured $18 Million in state funding. Collectively, the College has secured nearly all of the funds required to build a new Student Services/University Center and an Industrial Technology building.

While this success and ultimately these new facilities are praiseworthy, we cannot forget that they are but a means to an end. That end is what happens inside the facilities at LCCC, where we help transform our students’ lives through the power of inspired learning.

Our students are not only blessed with future additions to campus infrastructure, but also the generous gifts of so many of you who help provide, sustain, and increase scholarship opportunities that remove financial barriers to achieving a college education. In that spirit, we are pleased to present you with this year’s LCCC Foundation Honor Roll. Inside and across these pages you will have the opportunity to learn more about the students who have been blessed by your gifts. We also highlight some of your fellow donors who exemplify the character and commitment that epitomizes so many of our contributors and supporters.

On behalf of the LCCC Foundation Board of Directors and the LCCC Board of Trustees, we truly hope you enjoy this publication. More importantly, we want to share with you our sincere appreciation for the gifts of time and money you have brought, and continue to bring to our community college. We are blessed to have friends like you.

Sincerely,

George McIlvaine, President
LCCC Foundation Board of Directors

Plant flowers in others’ gardens and your life becomes a bouquet! — Unknown
"Hello."

It’s one word, a simple word, but it was all Santiago Lovisolo knew when he first stepped foot on American soil.

As part of the Rotary International Exchange program, Santiago came from his hometown of 9 de Julio, Argentina, to study in America. By the time he left, he was an honor student at Laramie County Community College and an honor graduate of the University of Wyoming.

Hello indeed.

Success like this doesn’t happen in a vacuum; it’s dependent on the support of a community. With enough charisma to engage just about everyone he met, the community couldn’t help but to embrace Santiago with open arms.

Through the Rotary program, he had the opportunity to live with three host families in Cheyenne. He still considers Tom and Kristin Lee – one of those host families – to be his “American parents.” Because they lived across the street from the Lees, George and Mary McIlvaine became his “American grandparents,” even though they were not one of his host families.

Knowing the challenges faced by a college student living in a dorm – let alone a student thousands of miles from home – the Lees and the McIlvaines were there for Santiago. Whether to help him proofread papers or to give him a couple bucks for gas or to provide a place to study or to offer a homecooked meal, his American families were always there for him.

These families know the value of creating a partnership to build the community, and their efforts with Santiago were no exception. In fact, the McIlvaines believe so highly in education that they have provided endowed scholarships and other support to help students get the education they want and deserve at LCCC.

Santiago is back in Argentina, spreading the goodwill about his experience and working for a company which provides global communication networks. He still hopes to return to the United States, perhaps to pursue a master’s degree in economics.

And to think it all started with a community coming together, with a college that wanted to help a student, with families full of support, with a man who learned so much more than the word “hello.”

It is the greatest of all mistakes to do nothing because you can only do little – do what you can. — Sydney Smith
The Lifetime Heritage Award is presented bi-annually to a person or family in recognition of their support of Laramie County Community College, and it also provides an opportunity to acknowledge and recognize all they do for our community. LCCC is not an island. We thrive when the community thrives, or rather we soar when the community soars, and it is to everyone’s benefit when individuals choose to use their time, talent and treasure to create a better world by creating a better hometown.

That is what the Lifetime Heritage Award is all about – thanking those truly inspiring people who see the bigger picture and recognize the impact of each person doing their part to be involved and engaged in making our community better and stronger for the next generation.

Since 1996, the Foundation has honored outstanding contributors for their dedication and commitment to LCCC and our students. Although 2002 was the first year the award was titled the Lifetime Heritage Award, we consider all our past honorees to be Lifetime Heritage Award recipients and want to remember these friends’ commitments to the college.

Arenas Hat Trick

A hat trick is a sports term defined as three successes of the same kind, especially consecutive ones within a limited period. The Arenas family, big into soccer, will complete a hat trick this year with all three children graduating from LCCC: Jose in 2008, Jorge in 2012 and Victoria in 2014.

Goals aren’t easily achieved in soccer or in life, therefore it’s important to give credit to the key contributors — the “assists” — as well. In the success of the Arenas family, credit goes to their parents, Javier and Candy Arenas. They encouraged their children to pursue a college education, despite not having done so themselves.

“Our parents have followed LCCC since we were young,” Jose said. “Just as a family, we were all able to follow the college. So that also helped in our decisions.”

Jose pioneered that transition for his siblings, being the first of his family to earn a college degree. He knew it was important to him to go where he could play soccer and to be close to home, but the financials had to fall into place too.

“It was a huge reward to have academic and athletic scholarship money being offered to me,” Jose said.

“It is pretty cool,” Victoria commented. “That helped with books and everything.”

Jose finished his four-year studies at McPherson College in Kansas, Jorge found his way to Waldorf College in Iowa, and their younger sister Victoria had to decide if she would follow in one of her brothers’ footsteps again.

“If my only two options were Waldorf and McPherson, which brother would I choose?!” she joked. It seems the answer is Jorge as she will continue playing and studying at Waldorf College in the fall.

If they continue to follow in each other’s footsteps, expect to see Jorge and Victoria back at the college working like their big brother. Jose landed a spot as an assistant coach with the men’s soccer team in 2011 and expanded his position to sports information last year.

“I’ve been working with a great group of people,” Jose commented. “I’m just enjoying the time while I’m here and seeing what opportunities become available.”

These opportunities wouldn’t have been available without an incredible team: the entire Arenas family.

Never believe that a few caring people can’t change the world. For, indeed, that’s all who ever have. — Margaret Mead

Being an artist is humbling. You spend a tremendous amount of time planning, creating, refining – and then sharing your work for the world to judge.

And if you’re an artist like LCCC student James Overstreet, you’re always looking for a way to improve.

“I don’t think I’m very good,” he said. “I still have a lot of work in front of me.”

Incredibly humble but incredibly talented, James received a scholarship from Vicki and Larry Meuli in support of his studies in the arts. It’s the second time he’s received this scholarship.

A self-taught artist, James felt he was missing fundamentals, so he came to LCCC to better understand the nuances of art. He’s having an amazing experience here and mentions instructors Ron Medina and Dave Zwonitzer in particular for helping build him as an artist and as a person.

“LCCC in general is just an amazing school,” he said, smiling. “I honestly don’t want to leave.”

Many scholarships require a certain grade point average, and that motivated James to do even better in school. Now a member of the Phi Theta Kappa honors society, the opportunities for his future are greater than ever.

He’s being selective about where he continues his education after graduation, because he has a young daughter. “I want to be able to have a career not only to better my life, but to better her life as well.”

Asked what he thinks of the scholarship, he glances away with the disbelief of someone who knows how it feels to be the recipient of someone’s generosity. “You guys are just giving me money. You’ve never even met me. You don’t know anything about me. But you’re willing to go out on a limb and just help me out.”

In the end, James even gave the Meuli’s a print of his original work as a way to share his appreciation. It was the greatest gift this artist could give.
Donors making a Difference through Scholarships

When you set foot in the home of Larry and Vicki Meuli, you know immediately how dedicated they are to the arts.

In one corner sits a grand piano, one that’s to be played and enjoyed. You’ll also see watercolor paintings that Vicki has done. And Larry will direct you to photos of Vicki highlighting her numerous appearances in shows throughout the community.

The Meulis have funded a scholarship to support students at LCCC studying the arts. Now in its fourth year, the Herbert Dwight Parker and Hazel Parker Miller Scholarship (named in honor of Vicki’s parents) was awarded this year to James Overstreet.

Both raised in Kansas, Vicki and Larry met while attending the University of Kansas. When they moved to Wyoming, arts became an even larger part of them.

“Arts enriched so much of my life,” Vicki says, noting a love that first came from her parents. As an elementary school teacher for several years, she incorporated the arts into various aspects of her lessons: music, arts, and theatre.

Vicki has wonderful stories to share about the influence music and theatre have had in her life, from an amazing instructor and choir director who impacts her life still today, to taking on theatre roles as varied as Miss Hannigan in Annie to a hilarious turn in the comedy Social Security at the LCCC Playhouse.

Larry, a former Wyoming legislator and director of the Division of Health, was instrumental in setting up a scholarship for the health field as well. Therefore, the pair established the Dr. Larry and Vicki Parker Meuli Scholarship to assist nursing students.

Asked why they chose to give money to LCCC’s scholarships, they pause and give a look that speaks volumes about their dedication to the college: “Why wouldn’t you? It’s local; you can meet the students who are benefitting from this.”

It’s no wonder these two have helped make a different in the life of LCCC students.

As said by Brenda Laird, the LCCC Foundation’s director of scholarships and annual giving, “They have blessed the college in so many ways, and I’m truly appreciative of them both.”

Working Hard
to help students succeed

Every year, Laramie County Community College students receive more than $1 million in scholarships funded by donors, foundations, trusts and the college. Who helps determine which student gets what, how much and why? Who helps ensure that each scholarship gets awarded following established criteria?

Meet Vito Milatzo, Scholarship Coordinator, Endowed Scholarships at LCCC. For the past nine of his 22+ years at the college, Vito has been in charge of facilitating the process for awarding institutional scholarships (merit, activities, athletics, etc.), private donor scholarships (endowed and outside), and federal scholarships (Daniels Fund, Pathways, Sage TRiO, etc.).

And with more than 350 scholarships, managing the disbursement of funds can be an involved process. It begins with the Free Application for Federal Student Aid and the LCCC Donor Scholarship Application. Each student applying for admission to LCCC must fill out these forms to be considered for scholarships and grants. These establish a student’s financial need in black and white. However, Vito takes the time to understand the gray areas, such as why a student is attending LCCC and how the student will use the funds awarded.

Vito makes an effort to get to know the personal side of the student population. He connects with the students who persistently apply for scholarships, have a genuine need for funding and are mindful of their educational goals.

“I take great pleasure in those students who make progress and further their academic careers,” he said.

He readily admits that he loves his job and finds it very fulfilling when he hears back from a student after they’ve graduated and left LCCC. “It is a gratifying feeling to share and participate in the successes and concerns of the students,” Vito shared. “I’ve developed many friendships.”

Giving out scholarships, helping students succeed, fulfilling a donors dream of helping – Vito helps make the cycle complete. LCCC is blessed to have his continued passion for the student make success happen in all directions.

What counts in life is not the mere fact that we have lived. It is what difference we have made to the lives of others that will determine the significance of the life we lead. — Nelson Mandela
Supporting Our Students through Scholarships

Endowed scholarships bridge the gap of financial need for LCCC students. These scholarship funds help build a future for our students and our community through education.

Supporting Our Students through Program Funds

When you support Laramie County Community College, not only do you help to enhance the quality of an LCCC education and access for students who need financial aid, but also you support programs that provide students with opportunities to serve other people and communities. This service benefits both the people who receive help and the students themselves, who broaden their horizons, perspectives and senses of involvement and compassion.

Supporting Our Community

Through the Cultural and Community Enrichment Series, LCCC provides unique learning opportunities beyond standard classroom instruction for students and the community at large. This series brings nationally and internationally recognized speakers and artists to Cheyenne for lectures, workshops and performances. The past year has brought an exciting array of speakers and artists to our community. We thank the supporters of the Cultural Series for their generosity and commitment to community spirit.

5. Going Mobile for Academic Advising, presented by Dianne Bath, awarded $1250.
Learning to Give

It’s not necessarily an easy thing to do – to give. To be selfless and to share your time, talent or treasure with an organization or somebody, maybe even a stranger. Married lawyers Billie Addleman and Brandi Monger are incredibly generous to this community and to the college. They both say that they learned to give.

Their primary teachers in this matter were John and Dana Metzke. John is a senior partner at Hirst Applegate, where Billie works, and also served on the LCCC Foundation Board for many years.

“We learned a lot from them,” Billie said, “including their commitment to service and philanthropy. And they have endowed a number of scholarships at LCCC.”

Brandi recalls the desire to give striking them shortly after attending a banquet where the Metzkes received the LCCC Foundation Lifetime Heritage award. There, the Metzkes spoke about a scholarship that they endowed to honor Thomas G. Gorman.

“I just thought, what a remarkable way to honor somebody and to keep their memory alive,” Brandi commented.

Billie and Brandi began the conversation about what it would take to establish a scholarship. They were just starting out in their careers and had just bought a house.

“I think there’s a mindset that you have to be at a certain place in your life or to have a certain financial status to endow a scholarship,” Billie commented. “And that’s really not the case. LCCC will work with you, and you can pledge a scholarship over a five-year period.”

“It taught us how to start giving,” Brandi said. “We didn’t grow up with families that donated money.”

The first scholarship they endowed in 2008 was the Herman Bud Lingle scholarship in honor of Brandi’s grandfather.

“My grandpa was an amazing guy,” Brandi said with a heartfelt smile. “It’s nice to know that his memory is helping somebody.” They’ve also endowed another scholarship in honor of Billie’s grandmother.

Remarkably, Billie and Brandi really lacked any strong connection to the college before giving to LCCC. Now they support the college in ways going beyond their financial commitment.

Opportunities to Give

Giving is a personal choice and should be reflective of your values. At Laramie County Community College, we recognize and appreciate our contributors’ priorities and have developed the following giving options to help you direct your gifts in a meaningful way. These giving options are available for all gifts, annual or endowed. While these options represent the current funding priorities, we gladly welcome gift ideas that may be more specific or not mentioned.

Unconditional Fund
Gifts to the Unconditional Fund enable the Foundation to respond to ever-changing priorities and campus needs. Such a fund allows the Foundation Board the greatest level of flexibility in allocating resources to innovative programs, faculty and student projects, needed scholarships, campus improvements, and general operations. As you review your giving options, we ask that you consider designating a portion of your gift to the Unconditional Fund to ensure that college needs and priorities can always be met.

Scholarships
Scholarships may be funded annually or through an endowed scholarship. An annual scholarship may be established with a gift of $250 or more. An endowed scholarship may be established with a gift of $5,000 or more. Each year the interest earned on the endowed fund is awarded as a scholarship. An endowed scholarship may be funded in one payment or through several installments.

Cultural and Community Enrichment Series
LCCC established the Cultural and Community Enrichment Series to bring nationally recognized artists and speakers to campus for the benefit of the entire community. The program sponsors twelve active series: the Esther and John Clay Summer Watercolor Workshop, the Gerald and Jessie Chambers Speakers Series, the Union Pacific Business & Industry Series, the Bank of the West Music Series, the First Interstate Bank/Progress & Prosperity Community Conversation, the Keizer Empowerment Speakers Series, Ed and Caron Murray Art Series, the ANB Performing Art Series, the Bill and Marietta Dinneen Writers Series, Literary Connection, the Cheyenne Guitar Society Music Series, and the Wyoming Tribune-Eagle presents.

Instructional Divisions and Programs
One of the most valuable ways you can support faculty and staff is to fund a specific program or instructional area. You may contribute to or establish a fund for an instructional area, career field, student service or athletic program.

Fund for Faculty and Professional Excellence
Resources available through this fund will support faculty and professional training, visiting professors and endowed professorships. Continuous education for faculty and staff ensures the highest quality education for students. Academic advances occur so quickly in today’s environment, it is crucial to enable faculty sufficient opportunity to remain on the cutting edge of their fields to teach students the skills they will need in the workplace.

Fund for Technology and Teaching Tools
The Technology and Teaching Tools fund allows LCCC students to learn using leading computer technology, distance learning and state-of-the-art equipment. Such a fund provides equipment like SmartBoards for classrooms, resources for Internet classes, a sonography machine for the radiography program, and special equipment for students who are physically challenged.

Fund for Campus Improvement
The physical environment of the campus is constantly required to change and adjust to new student demands. More students are interested in on-campus housing, student athletics and various gathering spaces. Campus beautification is an important part of maintaining a warm and welcoming environment for all our students and community visitors.
An Artwork Movement

Art in motion is what many students and community members experienced as artist John Frame visited Laramie County Community College. Through the support of the Ed and Caren Murray Art Series (part of the LCCC Foundation’s Cultural and Community Enrichment Series), phase one of the project, Three Fragments of a Lost Tale, was displayed in the Esther and John Clay Fine Arts Gallery.

John Frame - a sculptor, photographer, composer and filmmaker - brought to life his piece, The Tale of the Crippled Boy. Frame has been doing sculpture since the early 1980s, with exhibitions around the world and major solo exhibitions at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art among several others.

Frame has been working on the complex, ever evolving stop-motion and live shooting project for the past seven years. The characters, sets, and props are all done by hand, by Frame himself; either carved from wood or made from found objects. Frame also serves as the director and cameraman, and he wrote the music accompanying the film.

While visiting LCCC, Frame was able to demonstrate various techniques, ideas and elements of artwork to students and community members that attended his gallery show and presentations. Having the opportunity to work with and engage the students of LCCC is part of the reason the Ed and Caren Murray Art Series was developed.

Endowed in 2005, the series began as a gift from Ed Murray and his wife Caren to honor his parents, Ned and Barbara Murray. He recognized the impact that LCCC had on his mother Barbara, who enrolled in classes at LCCC and found new friendships and talents. The Ed and Caren Murray Art Series hosts nationally known artists in visual arts for workshops, lectures and shows.

Ed Murray is a former LCCC Foundation Board member, serving as President from 2002-2003.

Unless someone like you cares a whole awful lot, nothing is going to get better. It’s not. — Dr. Seuss
Ways to Give

There are numerous ways to support Laramie County Community College. Outright gifts are most frequent, but planned gifts offer excellent benefits to the donor, donor's beneficiaries and the college. The Foundation staff is available to meet with you regarding various gift options that can help you meet your philanthropic and financial objectives.

Ways to Make a Difference Today

Cash, Checks and Credit Card
Cash gifts are the easiest and most common form of gift to LCCC. You may receive a tax deduction of up to 50 percent of your adjusted gross income in the year you make the gift with any excess deductible over the next five years. Pledges may be made to LCCC and paid over a period of five years.

Corporate Matching Gift Programs
Your company may match your gift to the college. Check with your human resources office to see if your company has a matching gifts program that will make your gift go farther.

Stocks and Bonds
A gift of stocks, bonds or mutual funds is an excellent way to support LCCC while minimizing the actual cost of the gift you make. If you have held the asset for more than one year, you can transfer the asset to LCCC, avoid the capital gains tax, and deduct up to 30 percent of your adjusted gross income in the year of the gift. Please contact the Foundation for transfer instructions.

Other Assets
Gifts to LCCC Foundation can come in the form of other assets as well. For example, you may wish to consider gifts of closely held stock, tangible personal property (if its use is related to LCCC's educational purpose) or real estate.

Ways to Make a Difference in the Future

Bequest by Will
Bequests are one of the most common and easiest of planned gifts. Bequests may be made of entire or partial estates after other inheritance intentions are honored. Be sure to work closely with your attorney or financial advisor when including LCCC in your will.

Life Insurance
Life insurance policies allow donors to make significant gifts to the LCCC Foundation. The donor may name the college either as beneficiary or as owner of the policy, or life insurance may be used to fund a “wealth replacement trust” to replace another asset that is contributed to the college.

Retirement Savings
Naming LCCC as a beneficiary of a portion of your retirement funds is another way to support LCCC. Contact the administrator of your retirement program about including LCCC as a beneficiary of your IRA, profit sharing account, defined benefit plan, 401K or 503B.

Creative Ways to Make a Difference that Benefit You and the College

Charitable Gift Annuity
To establish a charitable gift annuity, you make a gift of $5,000 or more to the LCCC Foundation, and the Foundation will distribute to you or your beneficiary a fixed payment on a regular basis until death. A large part of this income is tax-free, and you also receive a charitable deduction for part of the gift.

Charitable Remainder Trusts
By transferring assets to the LCCC Foundation to establish a trust, you or a beneficiary receive a lifetime income. At the end of the trust term, the remaining assets of the trust pass on to the LCCC Foundation to support students and programs. A tax deduction is immediate, based on the rate of return and projected life expectancy of the beneficiary. Additionally, the trust is not subject to probate or estate taxes. This is appropriate for gifts of $50,000 or more.

Charitable Lead Trust
You may transfer assets to a trust for a fixed number of years. During the term of the trust, the interest earned will go to the LCCC Foundation as an annual gift, but the principal will ultimately go back to you or your beneficiaries. You may claim a tax deduction, and this is an excellent way for large estates to pass on an inheritance.

Retained Life Estate
If you deed property (a house, second home, farm home, etc.) to the LCCC Foundation, you and/or your spouse retain the right to live in the house for the remainder of your life. You receive an immediate income tax deduction for the gift. In most cases, the Foundation will sell the property and use the assets to support students and programs.

For More Information
For additional information regarding planned giving or to see how a planned gift might help you, please visit our website at lcccfoundation.edu or call us at 307.778.1285.
2013 Highlights of Giving

Gifts to the Foundation are the essence of what we do for the purpose of making more scholarships available; providing outstanding classroom experiences; bringing more guest artists and speakers to campus; providing cutting-edge technology; and creating unique opportunities for LCCC students and the broader community. Your gifts have created all the opportunities outlined on these pages.

The Foundation received $789,081 in gifts in 2013 from individuals, corporations, civic groups and private foundations.
